

Electrical Conductivity

From Ohm's Law

$$E = IR$$

R defines the resistance, measured in ohms.

The resistivity, ρ , is a property of matter

$$\rho = R A / l$$

with units of ohm·m

The conductivity, σ , is the inverse of ρ and is measured in units of siemen / meter, S / m.

